

Michael Voris

Host of The One True Faith

St. Michael Battles Satan..... on TV Broadcast News Talent Brings the Faith to Viewers

St. Michael the Archangel dominates the stage. Cast in bronze and six feet tall, he stands ready to plunge his sword into the devil squirming under his foot. The founder of St. Michael's Media eagerly awaits the blow.

At 47, president and founder Michael Voris is among the generations of Catholics which simply didn't receive thorough and accurate catechesis. His searching blue eyes reveal an intense desire to change that. Trained in theology at the doctrinally-sound St. Joseph's Seminary in New York, he has been known to put a damper on cocktail parties with a discussion on the consequences of sin. Kind and charming, he is likewise unyielding in his mission of notifying others of the existence of both God and Satan, and that salvation comes through Jesus Christ and His Bride, the Holy Catholic Church.

After several years in seminary he discerned that his vocation lay elsewhere, and spent years working as a CBS affiliate anchor in various markets and won multiple Emmys for his work in broadcast news production. The success he enjoyed in his career did not mollify a growing understanding of the darkness engulfing the secular media today. His experiences there provided him with not only the technical knowledge to produce excellent television programming, but a profound grasp of the need to produce programs that leave the viewer improved spiritually rather than just entertained.

On May 8, 2006 a new state-of-the-art digital television studio was dedicated to the archangel who Scripture promises will lead the victorious battle against Satan at the end of time (Rev 12:07). Located in an outwardly humble building a half mile north of the city of Detroit, it is the production center of what is hoped will be many high quality Catholic programs to be distributed nationwide. The twofold purpose of these programs is educating a generation of Catholics largely ignorant of Church teaching and saving souls from eternal damnation.

Voris is the host of St. Michael's Media's first show, aptly called The One True Faith. To date, 65 episodes have been completed and are airing in various markets in the United States.
